You can't claim to love someone yet lie to them; the two things don't match. So here are the five things I've learned from my past failed relationship. 1. When someone cheats or mistreats you, it almost never has anything to do with you. You are good enough even when their actions may have you believe otherwise. 2.

When Someone Cheats or Mistreats You, It's Not About You

"If people refuse to look at you in a new light and they can only see you for what you were, only see you for the mistakes you've made, if they don't realize that you are not your mistakes, then they have to go." — Steve Maraboli, Life, the Truth, and Being Free

So you sit, tap your fingers on the table, and shoot darts at the lady crying at the back of the restaurant. Did you think to say a kind word to the gentleman to help settle his nerves, or tell the waitress that you hope things get better. You might even leave a bigger tip or offer to pray for her. It's not about you! Look outside yourself.
