Donald Hall committed his life to being a writer, whether it be poetry or prose. This short memoir offers a look at the joy Hall found in the daily work of a writer, the family roots of his upbringing in New Hampshire, and his struggle with the onset of cancer during the writing of the book.

Life Work by Donald Hall - Goodreads

From well-known poet and memoirist Hall (Their Ancient Glittering Eyes, 1992, etc.), a meditation-memoir on the theme of work that becomes something much more when, midway through the writing, the author learns he has cancer. At 63, Hall is mightily productive in poetry, memoir, essay, letter, story, and review, and he sets out to devote part of each working day (for Hall, there are seven of ...

About Life Work. When Donald Hall moved to his grandparents' New Hampshire farm in 1975, his work as a writer and a life devoted to the literary arts must have seemed remote from the harsh physical labor of his ancestors. However, he reveals a similar kind of artistry in the lives of his grandparents, Kate and Wesley.
