Local Brian Wood

From Brian Wood (Demo, DMZ, Northlanders) and Ryan Kelly (Lucifer, American Virgin) comes Local, a collection of twelve interconnected short stories. Crossing genres as it crosses the country, Local examines Megan McKeenan, a young woman who sets off from Portland, OR with nothing but a backpack and a bad case of wanderlust. Each emotional vignette is a self-contained story that represents one ...

Brian Wood's Local is twelve years in the life of a girl named Megan. Each chapter (issue) takes place in a new location a year after the last chapter took place. It's similar to Demo, though I think Local is better written. Wood is pretty adept at portraying human beings in a realistic way, looking at personality, experience, history and ...

A couple of the stories are a bit overwritten and Brian Wood too often substitutes musical taste for characterization, but Megan McKeenan is one of his finest characters and she holds down the center of this storm admirably. The book still succeeds in painting vivid pictures of its various locales.
